Tornado Kills 15 Tots, 2 Adults

Ethel, was rescued from beneath a stove by Mrs. Helen Hughes, principal.

Suffering children, who begged to be taken back to the hamlet, were rushed into Washington hospitals. The village was nearly deserted when navy men and marines, doctors from the countryside, ambulances from the Red Cross and army in Washington came to give succor.

Mothers were frantically searching for children already rushed off to the city.

Dr. Owen, village physician, turned his house into a first aid station, and Dr. Heath, state health officer, opened his office to victims.

DIES WINNING BET

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 10 (By U. P.).—George Tinker, lunchroom proprietor, bet two Harvard students he could drink a quart of gin. Tinker was dead here today, victim of the bet which he had won.

$2.50 Socks May Boost Husband's Alimony Dues

(Special to The GRAPHIC)

NEW ROCHELLE, Nov. 10.—A $2.50 pair of men's silk hose changed a demure, cast-off girl wife into a fighting crusader for her rights.

Queen Blocks Plan To 'Chaperone' Her Talks With Press

ABOARD QUEEN MARIE'S SPECIAL TRAIN, DENVER, Nov. 10 (By U. P.).—

Queen Marie of Rumania isn't going to be suppressed when she talks to newspaper men, she made it plain today after an announcement by Prof. Petresco, representative of Premier Averesco, that her majesty must allow him to be present whenever she meets newspaper correspondents.

Her majesty laughed at Petresco's pronouncement. She intends to continue her friendly relations with the correspondents without the restraining influence of an official chaperone.

An attempted love feast last night turned into a squabble. In honor of Gov. Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming, Col. John H. Carroll, in charge of the train, gave a dinner to which all the warring factions were invited. Carroll took advantage of the opportunity to stress the fact that the railroads, and no one else, were paying for her majesty's trip. Immediately his listeners became excited. C. M. Lap-tew, in command of the Rumanian party, commented on the number of disturbances aboard the train.

The dinner ended hurriedly at the last course and the Rumanians retired for a conference while the Americans went to their compartments for a like discussion.

Coolidge Won't See Queen in Mid-West

KANSAS CITY, MO., Nov. 10 (By U. P.).—The contrasting personalities of President Coolidge, the calm and taciturn head of the nation, and Queen Marie of Rumania, whose American tour has been attended by storm and dissension, will be on parade here tomorrow.

Already the coming of the Queen has split the war memorial at 11 a. m.

Calvin Coolidge

Louise M. Seaman and Henry C. Fink, second son of the head of the Fink Automobile Body Company, were married here on October 10, 1925.

On the very day of their first wedding anniversary Mrs. Fink returned home to find her youthful husband moving out all his possessions.

"I'm through with you," she reports him as saying. "I'll have to give you something—but not much. My people have too much influence for you to fight. I've got a lawyer. You'll get only the worst of it. You better take what I decide to give you."

Mrs. Fink didn't wait to hear more. She rushed right down to the City Hall and swore out a warrant.

Again her story. "I was never told that the warrant had been executed," she said. "Never notified to appear in court. My husband, I found, appeared before Magistrate Samuel F. Swinburne. I was not there nor did any one represents me. And my husband had the advice of Attorney Sam Schain. And they talked it over and my husband said he would give me $10 a week and pay a doctor's bill of $100 I owe at the rate of $5 a week.

"Nothing awarded me for counsel fees, no alimony, nothing. And I am about to become a mother. Just the $10 a week, and my room costs $7 without board. I was told that after he had paid the bills he would allow me $15 a week."

Mrs. Fink learned that the day her husband left her he had bought of pair of silk hose for $2.50 and had it charged. She got the bill.

She appeared yesterday morning in the City Court before Acting Magistrate John S. Bize and alone and unaided, without benefit of attorney, she waged a legal battle that would do credit to a Portia.

"I can't live on $10 a week," she said. "If he can buy $2.50 silk hose he can pay me more. So there."

Acting Magistrate Bize couldn't answer that himself, so he passed the whole case on to Magistrate Swinburne.

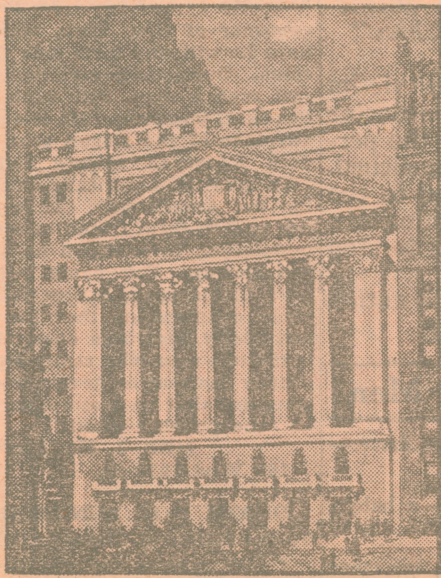

social life of the city through quarrels over invitations, precedence and other matters.

The Queen and the President will not meet. President and Mrs. Coolidge are to be here from 8.30 a. m. until 3.30 p. m. Queen Marie and the survivors of the controversies will be entertained from 6.30 until midnight. The President is to dedicate the city's $2,000,000

THE HALL-MILLS CASE

Highly respected in the community where he lived, the arrest of Henry Carpenter as one of the murderers came as a startling surprise to his neighbors, who never lost faith in him.

Associated with a New York Stock Exchange firm in an executive capacity, he is known among brokers and others who operate in the Wall Street district as an upstanding citizen.

A DAILY PICTURE STORY OF THE MYSTERIOUS JERSEY TRAGEDY

His home has been the gathering place of many of New Jersey's social lights, a place where friends always were welcome and where they were given a royal reception.

WATCH FOR TOMORROW'S INSTALLMENT

No more staunch supporter of his cause, no firmer believer in his innocence, can be found in the entire state than his loyal wife, who declared he has been used as a puppet in the case.
